Total Expenditures Reached $38,830,812,895

(By Associated Press)

Washington, December 8.—The net cost of the war to the American Government was fixed by Secretary Houston today at $24,010,000.

This, he said, represented the "adjusted" expenditure of the Treasury, excluding all other outlay which had no relation to the actual prosecution of the war during the period from April 6, 1917, to June 30 last, which, he said, covered the extremes of the government's wartime fiscal operations.

Total expenditures by the government during the period covered, excepting only postal disbursements from postal revenues, were $38,830,812,895, treasury figures showed.

The Total Expenditures Were $1,651,191.

The amount actually paid out was $1,703,712.06 but prepayments and gains in exchange reduced this by $5,520.97.

Colonel E. M. House and Henry White, the statement showed, received monthly salaries of $1,000 as commissioners while Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, and General Tasker H. Bliss and other commissioners had their actual expenses paid.

Consultations About Cabinet Posts to Continue

(By Associated Press)

Marion, O., December 8.—With his return to Marion today from his vacation trip to the tropics, President-elect Harding was ready to begin actual constructive work on the policies of the coming administration.

In Washington during the last two days he felt out opinions on many subjects and let it be known today he was well pleased with the result.

The work done in Washington was purely preliminary, however, and at least some of the senators with whom he discussed foreign affairs will come to Marion later to take part in the league conferences to begin early next week.

Meanwhile, consultation about selections for the Cabinet will continue.

WOUNDED WOMAN REMAINS QUIET ABOUT CRIMES

Makes No Mention of Death Of Her Two Children

(By Associated Press)

Youngstown, O., December 8.—Mrs. Thomas Koehler, in a hospital with a bullet wound in her arm, has given no intimation that she knows of the death of her two children, whose remains were found in the ruins of the Koehler home, near Hubbard, Ohio, Sunday night.

Officers who have her under surveillance have not mentioned the death to her, and she had not added to her first story that a bandit shot her and then fired the house.

Harry Collier, who told the police Mrs. Koehler rushed from her home as he was approaching it to visit her and explained she had shot her two children and herself, was released from the League of Nations in session at Geneva, it was said today at the State Department.

ATTACK MADE ON PLANS OF LEAGUE

Canadian Surprises League Assembly by Criticism of Plans Proposed

Says Non-European Nations At Disadvantage if Scheme Is Adopted.

(By Associated Press)

Geneva, Switzerland, December 8.—Plans proposed for the formation of the technical organizations of the League of Nations dealing with finances, health and transportation were sharply attacked at today's session of the League Assembly by Newton W. Rowell, Canadian Minister of Health.

These plans, the Canadian minister contended, tended to take such organizations out of the hands of the Assembly which should control them, and put them under the influence of Europe through the impossibility of the non-European nations sending their best men to three or four conferences annually.

"Fifty thousand Canadian soldiers under the sod in Europe is the price Canada has paid for the European statesmanship which drenched the continent in blood," Mr. Rowell asserted.

The Canadian minister's energetic intervention in the debate took the Assembly by surprise. Most of the European delegates gave no sign of recovery from their astonishment as the Canadian delegate concluded, but he was warmly applauded from all the other benches.

Hamon, will be submitted to the woman for final action, it was announced today by law firm members who conferred with J. L. Smith, father of the missing woman, yesterday.

Mr. Smith, the attorney said, is today on his way to a small town in Mexico to submit the proposal to his daughter.

Should Clara Smith accept the proposal to surrender, the attorney said, they would defend her in court and insist upon speedy trial if the charge against her necessitated taking the case to court.

The woman is not in Juarez, but is concealed in a nearby Mexican village, the attorney declared.

GOOD GASOLINE AND GOOD OIL
MAKE A GOOD MOTOR BETTER

Power...

That's what you pay for when you fill your tank with gas, even though you call for it by the gallon. See that you get it.

The thing we've tried to convince folks of is that there IS a difference in gasolines. There's a difference in the way they fire; the way they burn; the way they vaporize; all of which makes a vast difference in the power they deliver, which in turn determines the number of miles you get from a gallon.

Liberty Gasoline

is the gasoline that is different from others in that it vaporizes freely (even in cold weather); thus it burns cleanly, evenly and delivers MORE POWER and consequently more miles.

For those who wish a High Test Fuel in cold weather, we have a special pump at our So. Fayette St. Station for serving you with Tiptop Gasoline, which is a high test fuel in every sense.

Graciousness of Manner

There is nothing that contributes more to business success than real genuine graciousness of manner in dealing with the public. That graciousness so attractive and pleasing to the public is nothing more nor less than an expression of the appreciation the business man has for public patronage.

No business can succeed if it does not meet with public approval and as a consequence receive the patronage of the public. That being true it is almost inconceivable that any business should fail to appreciate that good will and patronage. It is more difficult to understand how, appreciating that good will of the public and the patronage which flows from it, any one should withhold expression in words or manner.

And yet, difficult as it is to explain, or even to understand, there are men in business—men of capacity for business too—who deal with their patrons as though they were grudgingly granting a favor instead of receiving a favor which means their very existence.

Men who cannot or will not deal graciously with the public are doomed to fail in business.

There is the overdone graciousness of manner which amounts to little short of deceit which is as fatal to business success as is the unappreciative, grumpy manner of those who will not or cannot appreciate favors.

The three or four years last passed have brought such a vast demand on the business men, in all lines, that a sense of appreciation of patronage has been lost—patronage during the rush times has become more or less of an insistent demand and burden.

Now we are coming back to the old times when the patronage of the public is sought and appreciated and the genuinely courteous business man is certain to overtake and pass, on the road to success, the social individual who is short on "manners."

Times Up Now

With the announcement that the eastern ring of the coal speculators combine has cleared up $34,000,000 on coal this fall (an estimate which seems entirely too low) we may presume that the time has come to begin official and political activity which will last the balance of this winter and most of next summer, until people begin to figure on next winter's coal supply.

Officials and politicians, judging the future in the light of the past, will be busy for about a year probing and investigating what has been done while the coal barons make plans, and get them to working well, for the next year's harvest of dollars.

The harmless and costly occupation by officials and politicians of looking backward on the monopolists of the coal trade has proved to be the cog in the big machine which annually extracts millions of unearned dollars from the people through the medium of coal.

It's time now to begin squandering the tax payers' money in the useless endeavor to find out what has been done and how it was done.

Young Garland's Courage

If notoriety for himself was the objective sought, young Chas. Garland, of Buzzards Bay, Massachusetts, most assuredly attained it, when he announced his refusal to accept a bequest totaling one and one-quarter million dollars. There is no more talked of individual in the nation today than young Garland.

It is scarcely fair to the youthful down easterner to attribute such a motive to him. The notoriety attained is in no way commensurate with the price paid by him and, at present, there is no prospect of a return for the advertising he pays for by his act of renunciation.

It is likely that young Garland has become a convert to the idealistic doctrines nursed by some of the idle rich—a faddist so to speak—and has lost, if he ever was old enough and experienced enough to possess one, an accurate compass and chart of life as it is lived in the world today.

In assuming his idealistic position he has done nothing but put aside the instrument by which he could assist the suffering whose interests he has so much on his conscience.

No matter how much we admire young Garland's good motives we cannot help seeing the fallacy of his course.

POETRY FOR TODAY

TEMPLES

What use to build our temples, so we say:
They fall around us, crashing day by day;
Blown bubbles, dreams that burst upon the air—

What use to build our temples, use to care:

Some finished temples shine with morning light
Upon the roads of effort, charming sight.

But those unfinished, think what sacred sense
Of having tried—the builders' recompense!

Perhaps the most unfinished temple here

Te eyes of heav'n seems lovelier than the rest.

Each toppling stone a tribute to some dear.

Unfinished dream that withered in the breast.

THE WASHINGTON HERALD

HARDING HEARD MANY DIFFERENT VIEWS WHILE IN WASHINGTON

of the country on the hopeful signs in the situation, and to say that we have every reason for hopefulness and every reason for knowing that the depression is merely temporary.

Particularly he was urged to say that the new administration would be sympathetic and would energetically set about doing everything possible to stimulate national prosperity.

All these things were urged upon Senator Harding, and as to practically all of them he did nothing. He gave the impression of wanting to be very sure-footed.

Whether any of Senator Harding's callers brought up the subject of Cabinet appointments, or whether Senator Harding himself brought up the subject, the present writer has no knowledge, but is strongly inclined to the belief that while Senator Harding is himself giving much thought to these appointments, none has yet been tendered.

Quite as important and more interesting in a human way than the matters of politics and statesmanship connected with Senator Harding's visit was the personal impression he made. He met the newspaper men, some sixty of them, in a body. He met the Senate in a body, and he met either individually or in groups a considerable number of Republican and Democratic senators and leaders. So far as it is possible to make a generalization based on so large a number of individual contacts, it is safe to say, with a good deal of warmth, that the impression Senator Harding made was extremely happy. Almost his chief preoccupation seemed to be to wish to live up to the properties, to be considerate of others, and to let all his acts and utterances be governed by a high-minded aspiration for what is best in taste. The impression he made was above all, one that reflected friendliness and consideration in him, and inspired friendliness and consideration in others.

When he spoke in the Senate yesterday I sat facing all the senators, and I saw no face that did not shine with kindness. Even Senator La Follette whose devotion to individual standards frequently brings him into situations where he stands apart from almost every other senator—even La Follette's countenance beamed with kindness and approval and he put obvious enthusiasm into his applause.

A reasonable proportion of so brief a visit was given to things in which his primary interest was sentimental. The dinner at the apartment of Senator New was that as well as some other incidents more intimately personal.

Senator Harding really regrets leaving the Senate. That is a bold thing to say, but it is literally true. He did not seek the Presidency, and would have preferred to remain a senator. I was surprised that so few of his hearers seemed to grasp the dramatic quality in the candor with which he said, in his speech to the senate, "If one could always direct his own political fortunes to his liking, I should have preferred my membership here to any office a citizen may hold in this Republic."

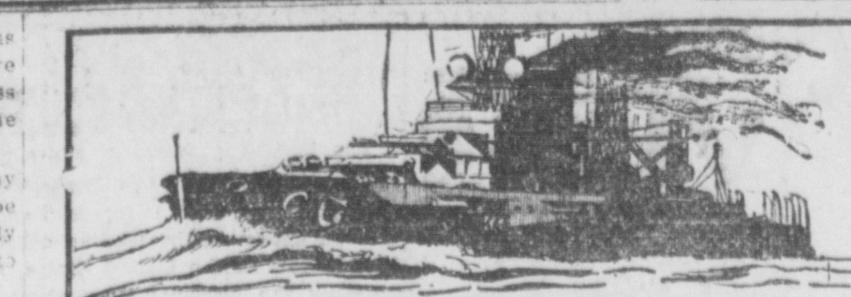

Those of us who have followed the intimate politics of the past year know that this is exactly correct as a matter of history, and that the sentiment came from the heart and reflected the feeling that the next President of the United States maintained as near to his new honors as yesterday.

All in all, Mr. Harding gave the impression of a man who's giving up a career of comparative ease with reluctance, who realizes that the Presidency of the United States is not a glory that you enjoy, but a duty that you live up to. He gave the impression of a man who is rather reluctantly giving up a career that had become familiar and easy and taking on one which he sees as composed more largely of self-sacrifice, in which the single chance of success lies in stern and unremitting devotion to the highest attainable standards of duty.

Senator Harding was urged to assert leadership of the Republicans in the present Congress, without waiting until March 4. He was urged to act as if he were the party leader and to put his shoulder behind a program of legislation for the present session. To this urging, apparently, Senator Harding showed rather marked dissent.

He was urged to make some public utterance in the shape of endorsement of the Budget Bill, to do what he could to press the Budget Bill through the present session of Congress. Except to express the hope that the Budget Bill would pass in the present session, Senator Harding did nothing about this.

Senator Harding was urged to seize the first occasion possible to make a speech or some other public utterance about the troubled state of business. He was urged to say something that would give comfort and assurance to those who have been harassed by the fall in prices and the slow-up in business. He was urged to say that all this is merely a normal episode of after-war conditions, and to try to focus the minds of the business men

SOCIAL : PERSONAL MENTION : CLUBS

"The Health Evening" conducted by the Department of Household Economics, Mrs. Estella K. Blackmer chairman, for the Browning Club Tuesday night in the Red Cross room, was a practical move well worth while in promoting interests and giving out information in a matter of vital importance—the health of the community.

Miss Helen Feltner, the Red Cross Nurse sent here by the Lake Division of Red Cross to instruct classes in home hygiene and nursing, gave a practical demonstration on bed making and a highly beneficial talk on "The spread of diseases." She treated of two classes of diseases, the communicable and the non-communicable diseases, and how and where germs flourish, how they enter the body, leave it and spread from one person to another.

Miss Feltner impressed upon her listeners the importance of common colds and children's diseases and the necessity of seclusion and care in order to prevent communicating them. She spoke of hereditary susceptibility and immunity and of non-communicable diseases, naming cancer as an example, and explained the causes of other non-communicable diseases in general.

Mrs. Ella Blessing presented a splendid paper, her subject, "The League for Longer Life." She divided people in general into four groups—the first from one to twenty-one years, the second, twenty to forty years, third, forty to sixty years and fourth, sixty to seven-five years.

Discoveries in medicine and improvements in practice have greatly increased the average length of life with younger people and increased to some extent the actual length of life by preserving the health and vigor of old people. Simplicity of living is one of the biggest factors. Length of youth or efficiency, of power to work and produce and enjoy are essential.

In the child group Mrs. Blessing touched on the importance of the Sheppard-Towner bill, as a maternity protective measure. She also spoke of the war which found one third of the country's boys physically unfit, and claimed the same to be true of girls.

In the second and third groups nutrition and a certain amount of exercise are important.

After a mention of the Christmas Seal Sale in connection with proper sanitation, Mrs. Blessing closed her paper with Dr. Guy Hinsdale's prescription for members of the League for Longer Life.

"The Best Medicine."

Two miles of oxygen three times a day. This is not only the best, but cheap and pleasant to take. It suits all ages and constitutions. It cures cold feet, hot heads, pale faces, feeble lungs and bad temper. If two or three take it together it has still more striking effect. It has often been known to reconcile enemies, settle matrimonial quarrels and bring reluctant parties to a state of double blessedness. This medicine never fails. Spurious compounds are found in large towns; but get into country lanes, among green fields or on the maintain top, and you have it in perfection as prepared in the great laboratory of nature.

Mrs. Julia H. Dahl, President conducted a short business session, in which the names of Miss Josephine Hidy and Miss Morgan were presented for membership.

The young Woman's Home Missionary Society of Grace M. E. Church will inaugurate Friday evening a pre-Christmas Bazaar and cafeteria supper, to be annually an event of the season.

The bazaar opens Friday afternoon at two o'clock in the church basement and will feature a surprise gift booth, a booth stimulating both fun and interest.

An unusually large number of aprons have been donated for this sale.

At five o'clock a cafeteria supper, of most attractive menu, will open.

The Cecilians completed the Study of American music at the meeting of Tuesday afternoon.

Five interesting papers were presented: Mrs. Fannie J. Hodson presenting "News of the Quarter," Mrs. Nina M. Craig, "Henry Hadley," Mrs. Nettie H. Ballard, "Cleopatra's Night;" Miss Del Lanum, "American Tone Masters" and Mrs. Lulu H. Robinson, "The Mason Family."

There were only two musical numbers but both were rarely beautiful.

and music enjoyed. Mrs. Morna B. Chapman and Mrs. Elva H. Kelley played Nevin's "Mazurka"—brilliantly and Mrs. Lona G. Hughey sang superbly, "Here's to Your Eyes, Sweetheart"—Foster.

An important business session was conducted by the president after the program. The club indorsed the Sheppard-Towner maternity bill, now being actively taken up by club women all over the country.

HAVE MORE CORN THAN WILL BE FED

Fayette county farmers, unless a great many more hogs are purchased than are in the county at the present time, will have tens of thousands of bushels of corn to be placed upon the market at a moderate price.

In many instances the farmers, alarmed by the spread of the some what mystifying "swine plague" and cholera, have sold virtually all of their swine, with the result that their corn is now being harvested and must either be sold for what can be obtained, or additional swine must be purchased in order that a better price can be obtained for their corn by feeding it.

The loss occasioned by the swine plague, in death of hogs and premature sale of animals to prevent loss by the disease has been very heavy.

MARTIAL SPIRIT ENTIRELY GONE FROM TOYLAND

Toys Of More Domestic Nature Have Supplanted Miniature Weapons.

Few Foreign Toys Are Seen On Market And "Made in America" Is Popular.

To look at the toys in the stores and shops of this city one would think that Santa Claus had forgotten there ever was such a thing as war. Gone is the martial spirit portrayed in the toys so evident since Christmas, 1914, when Old Saint Nick's mind began to run in the same channels as other people's and the greatest array of toy soldiers, cannons, machine guns, tanks and other mimic war paraphernalia, flooded the markets in the greatest avalanche seen since Santa began to make his rounds in the dim past.

In not one of the displays noticed does a trace remain of this type of toy and one dealer said that as far as he knew none were being offered in the wholesale market.

But the period of reconstruction has touched toyland. Such representatives as have drifted down from the north from Santa's workshop bring with them articles of a more domestic nature.

Most evident of all is that the tank and cannon has been replaced by the more peaceful railroad train and cars while the box of camouflage paints has been taken by the set of water colors. The miniature machine gun with its tiny rat-a-tat-tat is supplanted by the music box.

Wash tubs and baby carriages in profusion await the little girl who last year held the Red Cross nurse and khaki clad soldier doll in her arms.

And the toys do bear the trademark "Made in Germany." In the majority of instances the simple slogan, "Made in America" signifies the spirit that remains over even though the material reminder of the war per'od has passed.

Few foreign toys are seen on the market. In one store the proprietor who had a magnificent display, was able to select only one toy that bore the European mark. It was a Swiss music box that played the "Marsellla" and "Dixie."

SHEEP CLAIMS ORDERED PAID

The County Commissioners have awarded a total of $7.47 damages to owners of sheep whose animals were killed or injured by dogs during the past six months. In nearly every instance the original claim was reduced.

O. J. Rogers sustained the greatest loss and was awarded $300 for his loss. All claims are paid from the dog tax fund.

RESIDENCE IS BADLY DAMAGED

Dunlap Property and Household Effects of Edwin Weaver Seriously Damaged.

A blaze discovered in the roof of the Dunlap modern residence property on Circle avenue occupied by Edwin Weaver and family Wednesday afternoon seriously damaged the property before the blaze could be brought under control and destroyed a large part of the household effects on the second floor.

The roof was a mass of flames when neighbors discovered the fire and called the fire department. It is supposed that the fire started from sparks igniting the roof.

Nearly all the household goods on the first floor were saved without damage.

The loss will reach many hundreds of dollars on the property and also on the household goods of Mr. Weaver

Columbus, December 7.—Four recommendations for bettering business were offered today by Walter J. Sears, Chillicothe, president of the National Canners' Association in an address before the Ohio Canners Association.

FORMER U. S. MARINE MAY BE NEW SULTAN OF PACIFIC ISLAND

(By Associated Press)

Wrentham, Mass., December 7.—Robert A. McClain, ex-marine, who saw service at Llang Llang, a small island south of the Philippines 1910, is said to have fallen heir to the succession as ruler of that island, according to information received from Washington.

While in the marines, McClain saved the ruling sultan from indignities at the hands of fellow marines, and as a result McClain was named heir apparent.

Recently the sultan having died, efforts were made to locate McClain, that he might return to the island to claim his heritage.

The War Department announcement was in the form of an inquiry which reached this city recently. McClain wrote the department that he was the man referred to, and he had just received a reply confirming the report of the sultan's death and saying that his claim would be referred to the Bureau of Insular Affairs, which would advise him later.

team than that which they received Tuesday evening when the entire squad, Coach Moorehead, school officials and a few invited guests were banqueted at six-thirty o'clock in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church by the Brotherhood Class at a sumptuous turkey dinner.

The spirit of good fellowship was clearly prevalent throughout the evening, the efforts of the members of the Brotherhood Class in extending unlimited hospitality to the Blue and White team being par excellent and greatly appreciated.

The guests were seated at three tables in the basement of the church. At one table in the center of the room Coach Moorehead and the eleven regulars of the foot ball squad were given a place of honor. At a table extending across the room directly opposite the smaller group was seated the remaining sixteen members of the squad. Filling the position of toastmaster Forrest L. Tipton chose this table and he was flanked on either side by Superintendent William McClain and Principal O. K. Probasco. At the two tables at the side sat the Brotherhood Class and the guests.

The color scheme carried out was blue and white, the colors of the high school, and was the effective work of Messrs. Raymond and Elmer Zimmerman and Miss Clara Zimmerman.

Streamers of blue and white raced diagonally across the room above the tables and the lights were encased in the same colors.

On the center table there was a huge basket of ragged chrysanthemums, yellow and mahogany tinted, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins. Great baskets of golden pears from the Zimmerman farm, tied with bows of blue and white were at frequent places on the other tables and blue candles added to the brilliant effect.

Rev. D. H. Reid pronounced the blessing.

Forrest L. Tipton filled the role of toastmaster in a delightfully informal and clever way that always brought forth happy response from those whom he honored.

Hon. C. A. Reid responded to the toast that it was his duty to welcome the team and pay proper homage. In his finished and eloquent style, Mr. Reid brought the thought to the squad that if they continued to set in life the standards they had set on the gridiron their careers would be unquestionable.

Coach Moorehead was the next to respond and he extended the appreciation of the team for the hospitality afforded by the Brotherhood Class.

Tom Rogers, the retiring captain, and Hiram Hitchcock, captain-elect, both responded cleverly to toasts.

Superintendent McClain and Principal Probasco were the next speakers and Coach Moorehead was the recipient of praise from both these officials for his success in conducting athletics.

Charles Willis, referee who officiated at practically every game during the past season said that he wanted all to realize that Washington High had a wonderful team this year, but that it was largely due to the result of the coaching. "Washington High has the best coached high school team I have ever seen" declared the official. "Coaching is at least half a team's ability to win."

Frank M. Fullerton was the last to respond, as Toastmaster Tipton said to make the climax of the evening. Mr. Fullerton devoted his thoughts to the higher things in life as directly affected by football training, he interspersed a bit of poetry that contained a particularly fitting and beautiful thought.

Yells by the team led by James Dice formed the concluding feature in response to three cheers by the Brotherhood Class led by M. C. Meyers.

Members of the Brotherhood Class in immaculate white coats were punctilious waiters.

OHIO DOCTOR TOOK DRECO AND DECLARES IT TO BE A GOOD, SAFE HOME REMEDY

Says Dreco contains the same medicaments has been prescribing for fifty years to relieve stomach, liver, kidney and bowel trouble troubles.

"I am opposed to reckless praise of any thing, for I have lived too long seen too many things come and go in my fifty years of practicing medicine here in Ohio, but in fairness to Dreco, I am willing to openly endorse it after having taken this medicine myself," said Dr. John W. Fletcher of 819 Grant St. Springfield, Ohio.

"Before taking this medicine, I investigated what it was made of and found it contained roots, herbs, barks and leaves, which I have been prescribing for years in kidney, liver, bowel and stomach troubles, and I have never found any improvement in old time herbal remedies. As a physician I dislike to give myself publicity, but I'm making an exception in this case, for Dreco deserves it."

"I carefully noted day by day the change Dreco was making in my condition, and after one bottle was taken,

I had no more dizziness; the nausea and gas in my stomach was gone. My nerves were more steady and my bowel action was easy and regular everyday. My sleep became sound and restful and my appetite very keen. My kidneys and bowels are acting better than they have in two years. Dreco is a safe remedy to be used in any family."

All druggists now sell Dreco and it is being especially introduced in Washington C. H. by Frank Christopher. —Advt.

"IS WONDERFUL" CLASS TO HOLD BIG CORN SHOW

Tanac Did Miss Siegworth So Much Good She Now Sends it to Relatives in England.

"It is just wonderful how quickly Tanac works in building up one all run down and suffering as I was," said Miss Anna Siegworth, R. F. D. No. 32 Barberville, Ohio.

"Nervous indigestion had almost made a wreck of me before I had it. I knew it, and I was in a bad condition when I began taking Tanac. Most of the troubles that go with a bad stomach attacked me and made me miserable. I had but little desire anything for food, and frequently would turn so sick at the table I'd have to leave it.

"What little I ate caused trouble in my stomach and hurt me all over. Sometimes I felt like I was loaded down with lead, and had such bad smothering spells I'd have to gasp for breath. I tried lots of medicines and just kept on going from bad to worse."

"Finally mother prevailed on me to take Tanac, and then very soon all my troubles were over. It proved to be the very medicine I needed, and helped me right from the start. I've finished my fifth bottle now, have gained back eleven pounds of my lost weight, and feel even better than when I was sixteen."

"Tanac is a grand medicine and I'm glad to tell others what it has done for me. I've just bought two bottles to sell to relatives in England."

Tanac is sold in Washington by C. S. Haver, in Lowell by Mason's Drug Store, in Jeffersonville by J. B. Davis, in Orla by W. Murphy and in Middletown, E. L. Ford Sons, Lee Ortmann Selden.—Advt.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM IS ACTIVE

Schedule Is Being Arranged To Fit In With High School Varsity

Following upon the success of last season Washington High School will again have a girls basketball team in the field this year.

Under the direction of Miss Minnie Gray and Miss Mary Weaver, high school teachers, steady practice for the squad has been started and the list of candidates for the team affords excellent material. Several players remain from last season and around these a new sextet is being moulded.

Games are being scheduled with Hillsboro, Frankfort and Wilmington, and other places. The games scheduled will be played on the same evenings the Boys Varsity appears against these high schools.
